Delay in Construction Of At Least One Year On Downtown Arterial

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The start on construction of the proposed Kingston-Ulster Arterial through downtown Kingston is at least one year away, probably two, maybe more, the Freeman learned today from officials of the State Department of Transportation in Poughkeepsie.

The latest holdup in the long delayed road is a federally-required environmental impact study, completion of which is going to take "the better part of this year," according to DOT officials in Poughkeepsie.

The study was ordered early last year and had the immediate impact of canceling construction of a section of the road from Meadow Street to Murray Street, promised by Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler. That preliminary draft is now "virtually complete," according to William Kikilius, head of design for the region.

Kikillus said there were "some additional noise samplings that we are going to take" and that after that a preliminary draft would be circulated to area officials and interested groups. "When we get the comments back a final environmental impact statement will be prepared," Kikillus said. "That will probably take the better part of this year."

The final environmental impact statement will then be forwarded to the Federal Highway Administration for approval. Assuming approval by the federal government, and with it, up to 70 per cent of construction costs, the state can than finalize its design plans for the road.

Special

The state will then also begin to acquire property along the right of way which begins in Port Ewen, runs through the Broadway East Urban Renewal project and on out to a connection with Route 32 near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. Property acquisition would seem to be well into the future: "We won't be involved in land acquisition until approval by the federal government of the final environmental impact statement," Kikillus said.

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency has acquired all the land (and buildings) along the right of way in its project area, including the VFW Building on Delaware Avenue.

According to James G. Connors, executive director of the agency, the agency's agreement with the state calls for the agency to turn over "cleared" land for the right of way. "They told us they would not take it with any structures on it," Connors said.

Does this mean that the VFW is in immediate danger of demolition? "We would prefer that the VFW relocate as soon as possible," Connors said. "But there's no immediate rush in view of the fact that they're (the state) not going to start the highway next week or next month."

Connors expressed "disappointment that this environmental impact study is taking the state so long."

Kikillus was "hopeful" that the environmental study would eventually be approved by the federal government. He said there have been no indications either way, but suggested, "they would have to tell us why they wouldn't approve it. I don't think they would flat out disapprove the project."

Cost figures weren't immediately available but the best estimates are around $25 million for the four-lane highway. "That bridge across the Rondout will be quite costly," Kikillus said.

Will the state have the money to match federal funds if those funds become available? "We're funded annually," Kikillus explained. "We're assuming at this time that we'll be able to match any federal monies made available. There is no guarantee of anything when it comes to funding."

Connors held out the possibility that the state, once environmental studies were approved, would at least build the Murray-Meadow section, by itself. Kikillus allowed that that section "is getting priority over the rest of the road."

Higher Inflation, Less Jobs

Pessimism Prevails in '74

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation and unemployment will get worse, not better, in 1974 and the economy will totter at the threshold of recession for much of the year, President Nixon's chief economic advisors said today.

In a pessimistic prediction, the Council of Economic Advisors said prices would advance at a 7 per cent rate in the next 12 months, with food and fuel prices leading the charge.

If the forecast is correct, it would make 1974 the worst year for domestic inflation since World War II and would surpass the inflation rate of 1973, an unusually bad year for prices.

The forecast was published in Nixon's annual economic report and appeared to conflict with Nixon's own goals.

"We cannot accept continuation of the inflation rate of 1973, and still less can we risk its acceleration," Nixon said in a brief message to Congress accompanying the report. "We must dedicate ourselves to carrying on the fight against inflation in 1974 and thereafter."

But the President's strategy, keyed to a $9.4 billion deficit budget for the coming fiscal year, appeared to be aimed at keeping the economy moving and unemployment down, even if it means losing ground in his anti-inflation campaign.

Council Chairman Herbert Stein told reporters Thursday, "We have done the arithmetic. We do not see a path that any reasonable person would describe as a recession." "But," Nixon said in the report, "I cannot assuure the American people of an easy time."

Here is the council's 1974 outlook in other areas:

—Unemployment: Job layoffs in industries hit hard by the energy shortage, such as auto manufacturing and tourism, will help push the unemployment rate to an average 5.5 per cent during 1974 from last year's 4.9 per cent level.

Higher beef, egg prices pushed January grocery bills up. Story on page 8.

That means about 5 million Americans out of work compared to 4.3 million last year.

—Economic Growth: Gross National Product (total value of all goods and services) will expand by about 8 per cent to $1,390 billion ($1.4 trillion) but only about 1 per cent of the rise will be "real" or actual gain in output and production. Inflation will account for the remaining 7 per cent.

For the first six months, the growth rate will be flat or may even decline a bit, but the report expects the economy to snap back "by somewhat more than the normal trend rate in the second half." The administration considers 4 per cent the normal and ideal rate for long term expansion.

A 1 per cent growth rate would be the smallest since 1970's 0.4 per cent decline and far below the 5.9 per cent increase of 1973.

—Inflation: January through June will contain the worst of the price increases as the higher cost of energy and wholesale food is passed to the consumer. After mid-summer, prices should 'subside to rates significantly below those experienced in 1973."

—Wages: "The rapid . . . wage increases that were being experienced at the end of 1973 will undoubtedly be carried and pass through in the early part of 1974."

Unemployment Rate Leaps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment in January took its biggest jump upward in four years, rising from 4.8 per cent to 5.2 per cent as the energy crisis and fuel shortages took their toll of jobs, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said it couldn't tell precisely how much of the increased joblessness was due to energy shortages, but said there were indications it was "substantial."

In a separate report, the department's Manpower Administration said more than 200,000 workers receiving or applying for unemployment insurance benefits last month claimed they lost their jobs directly or indirectly because of the energy crisis.

The 5.2 per cent unemployment rate in January was the largest since the 5.5 per cent of October, 1972 and 5.2 per cent the following month.

The increase from 4.8 per cent in December was the biggest percentage jump since joblessness increased from 3.5 per cent to 3.9 per cent in January, 1970. The last bigger percentage increase occurred in September, 1969 when unemployment went from 3.5 to 4.0 per cent.

The BLS said overall employment, after seasonal adjustment, increased by 212,000 in January, but the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls declined by 260,000, "caused, to some degree, by actual or anticipated shortages of gasoline and other petroleum products."

Meanwhile, the domestic fuel crisis worsened today as gasoline prices went higher and major oil firms cut back deliveries to gas stations.

Government officials said Thursday a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in Tripoli Feb. 14 could be the forum for a lifting of the Arab oil embargo.

Congressional sources reported Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told the House Ways and Means Committee he thought the embargo would be lifted by early March.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a decision could come sooner, but "it certainly would not be in our view any later than Feb. 14."

Kissinger confirmed at a news conference after his meeting with the congressmen that the Feb. 14 OPEC session was the "urgent meeting" President Nixon referred to in his State of the Union address Wednesday.

"What is news," said Kissinger, "is that the lifting of the embargo will be recommended by several of the oil-producing countries."

$26,000 And A Resignation

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

In front of a crowd of about 130, nearly all of them his supporters, Ellenville Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden submitted his resignation, effective immediately, to the Ellenville Board of Education at a special meeting of the board Thursday night.

Hayden, in his resignation, said, "The board and I are not compatible."

"As a result of this incompatibility, inaction results to the detriment of the young people of the district," said the outgoing superintendent. He said he and the board were at odds on "education, financing, long and short range planning, and personnel management."

A school board majority has been seeking Hayden's resignation for more than a year, and when they finally got it Thursday night it did not come cheap. The board agreed to pay Hayden $26,000 for unused vacation and sick time, and a half-year's car mileage. His contract had another two and one-half years to run, and he was making $29,900 a year. The board also agreed to keep Hayden on a health and medical plan until July 1.

The only school board member to vote against Hayden's resignation was Morris Posner. Before the vote he accused the board of "vindictiveness", and spoke of the board's "ego and hate."

Posner was far from the only person to denounce the board Thursday night.

Former board president James J. Murray, in a letter read at the meeting by William Collier, said the board was spending "$26,000 to get rid of a good man" and was "motivated by vindictiveness at any cost."

Edwin Hoar, a former village trustee, was also opposed to Hayden's resignation and the $26,000 it was costing, said "If you (the board) have got a reason, you ought to tell us."

"I think you're sick," said Hoar.

Eugene Houck, another former school board president, charged that the school board was "taking orders from only several people within this community."

"You'd better find out who they are," he told the crowd.

A student said he had a petition with student signatures which recognized Hayden's contributions to the district during his six and one-half year tenure, "And we're sorry to see you go," the student added.

Board President Sonia Olsen was asked directly from the floor why the board was seeking Hayden's resignation, and her answer, "in the interest of better education," drew hoots of derision. She said the board had reasons, but felt it was better for Hayden if they did not go into them.

After the meeting, Hayden said he had no plans for the future "at this time." He was surrounded by well-wishers.

Mrs. Olsen told the Freeman after the meeting that the board had taken no action on naming Hayden's successor, and would probably name an acting superintendent at its next regular meeting, scheduled for Feb. 12. She said a search committee for a new superintendent had not yet been named.

Kingston Man Hit and Run Victim

By MATT SPIRENG

GLENFORD

State police launched an inch-by-inch search today for evidence at the scene of a hit-and-run accident in which a Kingston man was struck and killed Thursday night on Route 28 in the Town of Hurley.

Hurley State Police identified the dead man as Joseph Kingston, 52, of the Hummel Boarding Home, 106 West Chestnut Street. Police, who were unable to positively identify the man until late this morning, said he was an employe of Gateway Industries.

Police said an as yet unidentified vehicle apparently slammed into the man as he was walking on or near the roadway about two miles west of the intersection of Routes 28 and 375.

While further attempts were being made today to determine the exact point of impact, police indicated that their initial investigation at the scene Thursday showed that Kingston might have been hurled as far as 150 feet after being struck by the car.

Police were first called to the scene at about 10:57 p. m. Thursday after Kingston's battered body was spotted lying at the side of the road by a passing motorist.

Uniformed troopers and BCI investigators under the direction of Captain K. Crounse and Lt. E. J. Minahan sped to the scene where they found Kingston's lifeless body lying next to a guard rail. Police said he had apparently been hurled through the air into the guard rail after impact.

Police said they have not been able to determine in what direction the car that struck Kingston was going.

Kingston was pronounced dead at the scene, and an autopsy was performed today. Coroner William S. Keyser said the man died of a fractured skull and other multiple injuries.

Troopers and BCI investigators returned to the death scene after daybreak today to comb the area for any evidence which might aid them in finding the car—and eventually the driver of that car—which struck Kingston.

"We aren't certain if he was walking on the roadway or walking on the shoulder," a state police spokesman said early today.

Police are also attempting to determine when and where Kingston was last seen in an effort to pinpoint when the mishap occurred. Indications were that Kingston was struck between about 10 p.m. and the time his body was spotted by the passing motorist, according to authorities.

State police urged anyone who might have any information whatsoever about the mishap to contact them at the Hurley barracks.

Drug Raid Nets 40 in Dutchess

POUGHKEEPSIE

Law enforcement officials in Dutchess County, in what has been described as the "largest drug raid of its kind since the inception of the new narcotic law," have arrested some 40 persons and charged them with felony possession of drugs ranging from marijuana to heroin.

Some 150 police officers led by Troop K Commander Capt. Joseph Leary fanned out throughout Dutchess County shortly before dawn this morning. They carried with them indictments signed by Dutchess County District Attorney Albert Rosenblatt and swiftly arrested "about 40 persons."

According to Rosenblatt, all the arrests were for felony sale of narcotics. Rosenblatt indicated that most of the arrests were for the sale of marijuana but that there were some arrests for heroin. Arrests took place throughout Dutchess County with no particular concentration in any one area.

Those arrested for sale of marijuana face penalties of fines, probation or jail terms while those arrested for heroin sales could draw life jail sentences, under the strict new state drug laws.

Rosenblatt gave few details as to the background of those arrested today but he indicated that some had been arrested previously for sale of narcotics and at least a few were college students from Dutchess County.

All were arraigned before Dutchess County Judge Joseph Jiudice with the majority ending up in jail in lieu of bail and all facing further court action.

Police departments from Beacon, Poughkeepsie, the Town of Poughkeepsie, in addition to State Police, participated in the drug raid, which had been preceded by a four-month investigation by State Police.

Capt. Leary was in overall command, assisted by Gerald Hayes, a Dutchess County assistant district attorney. Other leaders included State Trooper Lt. William Wolfe and Senior Investigator Roger Fairchild.

Indians Change Rehearsal Day

KINGSTON

The rehearsal day has been changed from Saturday morning to Tuesday evening for the Troop 12 Boy Scouts of America Indians Drum and Bugle Corp. Co-directors James Brodhead and William Slover say the corps will now rehearse each Tuesday at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School between 6:30 and 9 p.m.

An expansion drive is also underway to recruit 50 new members for the "junior" Indians Bugle Corps. Interested boys between the ages of 8 and 14 are invited to attend the first Tuesday night rehearsal, Feb. 5, with their parents.

Brodhead and Slover say they will teach any boy how to play a bugle or drum and have them ready for the coming season if they join before the end of this month. They note that all instruments and uniforms are supplied at no charge by the Corps and that the boy joining the Corps will enjoy the added benefits of travel, meeting new friends, learning self-discipline and just plain fun.

Snow Removal Is Explained

ROSENDALE

Rosendale Village Mayor Robert Sheehan said in a release today that he has been notified by the State Department of Transportation that it will no longer be responsible for snow removal on any state road in the village including Rt. 32, Main Street or Rt. 213.

Sheehan said he tried unsuccessfully for nine days to contact DOT concerning why the state had failed to remove recent snows in the village as it has done in the past.

Later, made aware of state cutback, he said town and village men and equipment worked together and cleared Main Street in five hours.

Prosecutor's Confidence in Dean 'Amazes' Scott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today he found it "remarkable" that the special Watergate prosecutor's office still had confidence in the testimony of John W. Dean III, who he called a confessed felon.

Scott, emerging from a meeting with President Nixon and other GOP congressional leaders on the President's economic message, also implied that he had seen information that prosecutor Leon Jaworski's office had not.

"I would hope he (Jaworski) will eventually have all the material that's available to me," Scott said.

Scott previously has said he has seen White House information that would show Dean, Nixon's former counsel, had lied when he said Nixon knew before March 21, 1973 of the Watergate coverup.

When asked in court Thursday whether Jaworski's office had any information that would cause it to lose confidence in Dean's testimony, assistant prosecutor Richard Davis said it had no evidence to believe Dean committed perjury.

"I think it is a rather remarkable statement when one refers to having full confidence in a man who is a confessed felon," Scott told reporters.

In his answers to a series of questions, Scott suggested that he also may not know all there is to know about conflicts and contradictions between Nixon's public statements and Dean's allegations in testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee.

"I've been put in the position of dealing in the dark with the lights out with various people who fail to illuminate me with all the information they have," Scott said.

In another Watergate development today, Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary, appeared before the grand jury which is investigating the 18½ minute gap in one of the White House tapes. Miss Woods, who has said she may be responsible for four to five minutes of the gap, would not talk with reporters.

Dean has pleaded guilty to one charge of conspiracy in connection with Watergate. He has not been sentenced.

Dean's testimony is expected in a number of Watergate-related trials, and the fact that the prosecutors list him as a government witness means they are relying on his credibility.

"So far as the government is concerned, based on evidence we have now, we have no basis for believing Mr. Dean committed perjury in any proceeding," Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard J. Davis said. "We would have no basis . . . for bringing any charges of perjury against Mr. Dean."

President Nixon's son-in-law, Edward Finch Cox, called Dean a "coward" seeking immunity from prosecution. Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott says he has seen evidence at the White House indicating Dean committed perjury. Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the President stuck by repeated statements denying any wrongdoing.

Dean's testimony is expected in the case of former Nixon aide Dwight L. Chapin, charged with lying to a grand jury.

Chapin's attorney, Jacob A. Stein, said in U.S. District Court Thursday that Chapin had a right to know if the government had evidence that Dean had lied "even in matters extraneous to this case."

When Dean pleaded guilty Oct. 19 to one charge of conspiracy, the special prosecutor announced he would not be prosecuted for any other crimes—with the exception of perjury.

The possibility of upcoming trials—Jaworksi has indicated that indictments may come this month—is behind a request that the Senate Watergate committee postpone its final report, due to be made public Feb. 28.

It was learned Thursday that Jaworski was concerned the report would "name names" and reach conclusions that could prejudice future proceedings. "If the special prosecutor thinks this could prejudice these cases or anyone's right to a fair trial, what choice do we have," one committee source said.

City Woman Indicted for Murder

KINGSTON — Mary Parker, the 23-year-old Kingston woman who was charged with murder last Nov. 20 in connection with the strangulation death of George Chichelsky with whom she allegedly resided at 33 Broadway, was indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury Thursday.

In a partial report handed up in Ulster County Supreme Court to Justice Louis G. Bruhn by First Assistant District Attorney Ellen G. Donovan, Miss Parker is charged with two counts—intentional murder and felony murder.

At the time of Miss Parker's arrest, Police Chief Julius M. Glassman said today that there were two witnesses to the alleged strangulation murder—Miss Parker's sister, Katie Parker also of 33 Broadway and Katie Parker's 15-year-old son, whose name was withheld.

At the time, Glassman said there was no apparent motive for the murder.

Others indicted by the Grand Jury include the following:

John Bloomfield, John Newton and Edward Triana, all of Ossining are charged with alleged robbery in the second degree. The trio are alleged to have taken cocaine from students on the State University College at New Paltz, Dec. 18, 1973. The robbery was reportedly commited with the use of a knife and a gun.

Douglas Decker, Jack Langjan and Frank Geiselhart, all of Kerhonkson, are charged with alleged arson in the second degree in connection with a barn which burned Aug. 29, 1973 on the property of Frank and Lawrence Kortright of Kerhonkson.

Carlos Cummings, of New York City; James Matthews of the Bronx and James White of St. Albans, were all indicted on charges of alleged sodomy in the first degree arising out of incidents that took place at the correctional Institution at Napanoch where the men were interred.

Mark Blowers of St. Remy was indicted on charges of alleged attempted robbery in connection with a purse snatching incident Dec. 3, 1973 in Kingston. It is alleged that at the time Blowers knocked down a woman who had just had eye surgery and took her purse. The woman reportedly subsequently lost her eye.

Theresa Vaughan of Newburgh was indicted for attempted robbery in connection with another alleged purse snatching incident on Broadway in Kingston. The purse was reportedly taken from Josephine Erck.

The Vaughan woman and Sandra Rickert of 37 Gill Street, Kingston, were also indicted on charges of alleged robbery in the second degree on De. 5, 1973 in which Elsie Secor was the victim of another purse snatching incident.

Frederick Kellerhouse, Richard Dupont and Manuel Rivera, no known address, were indicted on charges of alleged burglary in the second degree, Nov. 13, 1973 in Ellenville.

Two no bills were returned. Cases were dismissed against Leslie Lantos of New York City who had been charged with alleged burglary in the third degree and Bert Quick, 118 Harwich Street, Kingston, who had been charged with conspiracy in the second degree (arson).

Woodstock Festival's MD Arrested on Sex Charges

WAPPINGERS FALLS — Dr. William Abruzzi, who briefly gained national fame in 1969 for his treatment of young persons with drug problems at the massive Woodstock Art and Music Festival in Bethel, was arrested Thursday on rape and sodomy charges.

Dr. Abruzzi, a New Paltz resident, was arrested at his home by state police.

The charges were filed against the doctor in connection with an incident in his Wappingers Falls office the night before, according to a spokesman for the Dutchess County District Attorney's office.

Details of the alleged incident which resulted in the rape and sodomy charges are being kept under wraps, with all information coming from the District Attorney's office.

The only information which has been released is that the incident involved a woman in her 20s who was "incapable of consent."

According to the spokesman, the arrest was "the result of an investigation which has been conducted over the past several months by the D.A.'s office and the New York State Police." The spokesman added that the investigation is continuing, but declined to comment further.

Following arraignment Thursday, Dr. Abruzzi was released on $1,500 bail pending a reappearance in court Feb. 8.

Old Man Winter Back

KINGSTON — Winter swept back into Ulster County overnight causing scattered power outages and dropping temperatures to seasonal lows.

Approximately 50 cases of storm related power problems were reported over a wide area of the county. High winds downed trees and tree limbs keeping repair crews on the job from 7 p.m. Thursday through early today. Temperatures which hit an official high of 54 degrees in Kingston 2:30 p.m. Thursday were down to a low of 19 degrees at 6:35 a.m. today.

Tree limbs were downed in Kingston and refuse collection routes were littered with wind tossed trash. According to Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, the biggest clean up for his crews was at the old city hall where wind had ripped tar paper from the roof scattering over the parking lot.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Saturday

Tonight, snow is expected to spread across the upper portions of the Rockies and Plains and will also be found over parts of the Lakes region. Rain or showers will develop in areas of the mid Mississippi valley and vicnity. Elsewhere, generally fair weather is forecast. Minimum temperatures include: (approximate maximum reading in parenthesis) Atlanta 48 (67), Boston 18 (35), Chicago 19 (33), Dalls 40 (69), Houston 58 (77), Jacksonville 57 (79), Kansas City 23 (33), Los Angeles 50 (66), Miami 69 (82).

Oil Mars Japan's Dream

It was only last August that Premier Kakuei Tanaka of Japan went before the National Press Club in Washington to deliver what sounded like a declaration of independence. Japan was ready, he said, to assume a place in the sun earned by two decades of spectacular economic growth. Her ties with the United States in the future would be less important. Japan, he declared, could even be considered worthy of a permanent seat on the United Nations Security Council as one of the world's major powers.

Those were halcyon days for Japan, and they ended suddenly. The energy crisis has sent the Japanese economy lurching downhill. Seldom has a nation taken a more violent ride on the economic roller coaster.

Adding to Japan's discomfort was the rioting that greeted Premier Tanaka's recent visit to Indonesia's capital city of Jakarta where student protesters demonstrated against massive Japanese investments.

In 1972 Japan paid about $4.3 billion for oil—all of it imported. This year that price will jump to $10 billion, and it is doubtful she can get as much oil as she needs at any price. Her fabulous balance of payments and billions in foreign currency reserves are melting away as the government shores up the devalued yen.

Self-confidence and independence are hardly the tone of Japanese foreign policy today. Trade Minister Yashuhiro Nakasone is touring Europe and the Middle East searching for oil and trade. Japan is buttering up the Egyptians with an offer of $140 million to help reopen the Suez Canal. President Nixon's invitation to explore an international approach to solving energy problems found a ready acceptance in Tokyo. Premier Tanaka has been on a fence-mending trip among undeveloped Asian nations which supply Japan with raw materials and have suddenly become less eager to do so on the terms established in the past.

A year ago the Japanese might have hoped to bargain with the Russians on their own terms for developing petroleum reserves in Siberia. Now the Russians hold the trump card. When Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohiri visited Peking recently to conclude a trade agreement he found the Chinese Communists less willing to wink at the fact that Japan still gives tacit recognition to the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan. On top of their new economic problems, the Japanese face the fact they live in a hostile environment and cannot forever avoid the cost of rearming and assuming responsibility for their own defense.

Japan's rise to industrial eminence since World War II often has been laid largely to the energy of her people and the value they place on productivity and efficiency. However, as a crowded island nation with practically no natural resources, Japan is learning painfully that its successful "system" cannot exist on the will and energy of people alone. It requires resources, fuel, markets and cooperation with other nations. This may not be the decade of Japanese independence at all, but the awakening of the Japanese to the fact of their own dependence on the good will of friends and partners throughout the world.

Defensive Medicine

Faced with a rising volume of malpractice law suits, the practice of "defensive medicine" is increasing among physicians, surgeons and hospitals in California. Alarm is felt over the fact that California leads the nation with one-fourth of the national total of legal actions alleging malpractice, or gross medical negligence, with settlements of more than $1 million. Such attacks have led to self-defense.

"The kind of safeguards we are forced to employ today, including expensive, time-consuming laboratory tests, X-rays and consultations, which may be of only marginal medical value, are costing the patient dearly and his financial burden will go still higher," said a surgeon of 24 years' practice.

Over a 16-month period, of nine malpractice awards of $1 million or more in the United States, five were in California. In one recent case, the settlement was for $3.7 million. The trend is due largely to specialties in medicine. The old patient-doctor relationship, with its confidence, is gone, with the fading of family doctors. Specialists, who see and treat a patient for a special condition, do not take time to build such confidential relations. It is easier for such patients to feel neglected or mistreated and to go to court for restitution.

By and large, this puts a terrible burden on practitioners and, through the defensive medicine they feel they must use, on the cost to the public.

Navy Builds Ships for Saudi

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Saudi Arabia has cut off oil to the U.S. armed forces since October 21. Yet the U.S. Navy, turning the other cheek, is building the Saudis a new naval fleet.

The details are contained in a confidential memorandum sent to the top Navy ship designers at the request of Navy Secretary John Warner. Signed by Warner's engineering chief, Rear Adm. P.C. Jones, the memo calls for "intensified management" to oblige the Saudis.

"The United States has agreed to undertake a program to construct several classes of ships for the Royal Saudi Navy Force," states the memo.

Not only will the Navy butter up King Faisal by designing the ships, but the memo says the United States will also oversee "contractor performance, resources allocation and all other matters concerning . . . assigned project work."

WON'T DISCUSS IT

When we asked engineers on the project how it was going, they hissed nervously: "That's confidential! We're not supposed to discuss that!"

Among the confidential revelations in the memo: The United States is building guided missile gunboats, patrol ships and war frigates for the new Saudi Navy.

Yet on October 21, King Faisal's government served notice on Aramco to halt all oil deliveries to the U.S. armed forces and warned that "any deviations" would be "harshly dealt with."

Aramco, the world's largest petroleum producer, is a consortium of four U.S. oil companies — Exxon, Mobil, Standard of California and Texaco. Ironically, they are permitted to charge off Saudi taxes against their U.S. taxes, because they persuaded Congress that the rich Saudi oil reserves are essential for U.S. defense.

PATRIOTISM SECOND

Yet the oil colossus, putting profits ahead of patriotism, didn't hesitate to carry out King Faisal's orders rather than risk offending the stern old monarch.

The king ordered the cut-off because he felt American weapons, which President Nixon rushed to Israel, were being used to kill Arab soldiers.

Aramco has pleaded that it had no alternative but to comply with the king's dictum. Otherwise, the consortium's only source of crude oil would have been jeopardized.

At the State Department, officials explained that the Saudis simply would have taken their business to Britain, France or Japan if the United States had refused to build the ships.

A Navy spokesman said he was sure no funds were going for training Saudi sailors. He referred all other questions to the Saudi Arabian embassy.

Inside Report

Dean's Credibility

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Egil (Bud) Krogh's implication that John W. Dean III lied under oath to the Senate Watergate committee was tremendously cheering to the White House but added absolutely nothing one way or another to the overriding question of Dean's credibility.

In his taped, nationwide TV interview over CBS's "60 Minutes" Sunday night, ex-White House aide Krogh asserted that Dean told him last March 20 the President "just doesn't know what's been going on" in the Watergate cover-up. But in his own prepared and sworn testimony, Dean revealed a similar conversation with another White House aide. In truth, neither conversation sheds any light on whether, as Mr. Nixon maintains, he first learned of the cover-up from then White House counsel Dean March 21.

Actually, the possibility of the President's cover-up involvement — central to impeachment proceedings — revolves around what Dean and he talked about previous to March 21. Most important is the March 13 conversation in which Dean alleges — and the President denies — they talked about executive clemency and cash payments for the Watergate burglars.

Either by design or accident, Krogh's interview with CBS's Mike Wallace dovetailed with the renewed White House assault on Dean's credibility. Talking publicly after his sentencing for the "plumbers" burglary of a psychiatrist's office, Krogh seemed eager to assert confidence that the President had no part in the Watergate cover-up.

"I would like to say the reason is not just faith," said Krogh. His evidence is a two-hour March 20 meeting with Dean in which Dean said: "Bud, the President is being badly served. He just doesn't know what's been going on." From that conversation, Krogh concluded Mr. Nixon knew nothing about the cover-up until informed by Dean March 21.

While declining to call his "very close friend" Dean a liar or perjurer, Krogh implied as much. He indicated that Dean "might not have perjured himself" if he was not telling him the truth March 20 — adding, "but I believe he did" tell him the truth.

However, in prepared Senate testimony last June 25, Dean told of a March 20 conversation with another White House aide, Richard Moore: "I told him that I really don't think the President understood all the facts involved in the Watergate and particularly the implication of those facts." That is consistent with what Krogh says Dean told him later the same day.

But Dean also testified in June: "I did not discuss with Moore the fact that I had discussed money and clemency with the President earlier (March 13)." If by his own testimony the generally close-mouthed Dean withheld this from Moore, it would scarcely strain credulity if he also withheld it from Krogh.

Thus, the President's involvement depends far less on the tape recording of March 21 than of March 13. Yet Mr. Nixon's defenders have stressed the March 21 tape, contending its disclosure would exculpate the President.

On Oct. 31, presidential chief of staff Alexander Haig so informed Senate Republican leaders. Shortly thereafter, minority leader Hugh Scott examined a White House "document" concerning the March 21 Nixon-Dean conversation. After we reported recently that continued examination of Dean by the special prosecutor's office indicated it did not consider him a perjurer, Scott declared the tapes cleared the President and contradicted Dean.

Scott contends he saw a transcript of the March 21 conversation; people in a position to know believe he saw only a summary containing verbatim quotes. But there is no argument about this: it concerned only the March 21 tape, which in itself cannot clear the President and condemn Dean.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's investigators have now read transcripts of all tapes. Contrary to the mistaken impression of many (including Krogh, who declared over CBS that Dean could not be prosecuted further under his immunity agreement), Dean most definitely can be prosecuted for perjury before the Senate committee. But the prosecutors have found nothing to warrant such prosecution.

Until the tape transcripts are actually released, this transcends all else. While a Nixon advisor found Krogh's account of his conversation with Dean to be "damned helpful" to the President, in fact it changes nothing and reveals precious little.

The Beauties of Martinique

ABOARD M V ANGELINA LAURO — Crumple a desk blotter, drop it, and you have the island of Martinique. It is part of the necklace of Antilles encircling the throat of the Caribbean. The mountains rise steep and jungle green from the sea with a smudge of smoke coming from Mount Pelee.

It is, to my way of thinking, a special place. Martinique is only 54 miles long but is packs more beauty, history and terror than many nations. Dark crayon roads thread the passes, but the jungle growth of flaming poinsettia, the powder puffs called pomme d'amour, the timid, shuddering orchids and the orange flamboyants would choke the highways in a year if they were not cut back.

A 15-foot fan, called Traveler's palm, grows alone. Pierced, it yields cool sweet water. Deep in the rain forest, bananas hang green. Breadfruit is there for the taking.

The Creole women, the product of French colonization and black slaves, are as attractive as the flowers. Far down the long slopes, squatters live in the cleanest shacks.

It is almost 72 years since Pelee warned the people with two days of flying rocks and ruddy flame painting the night clouds. The people of St. Pierre saw it, crossed themselves, and went about their work in the fields and the sugar refinery.

Pelee blew out one side of its volcanic face in a single blast. Two hundred miles east, the crew of a ship thought it was a clap of thunder in an empty blue sky.

Boiling lava slid in slow motion toward St. Pierre and the sea. Prisoners in the local jail begged for mercy. St. Pierre was shoved, building by flaming building, into the sea. Thirty thousand people were killed. One prisoner survived.

For a year, Pelee's ashes dimmed the sun in other continents. Today, it is a 4,600-foot cone with a broken face. Now and then, men shade their eyes to stare at the lazy drift of smoke. "It sleeps."

Further south, Fort-de-France stands at the foot of the mountains, a toy town with bright roofs, taxicabs, tourists restaurants and, in the center of a park, a pale cold statue of Josephine.

The child who was to become the wife of Napoleon was born across the harbor in Trois Ilets, which was a village in 1763 and is a village now. The church bells which tolled when she was christened Marie Rose Josephine Tascher de la Pagerie, echo through the hills today.

Her nickname was not Josephine; it was Yeyette. Her father had a slave plantation which grew cocoa and coffee. In a day when marriages were seldom made in heaven, but rather in the heads of greedy parents, Yeyette was sent to Paris, at age 16, to marry a rich rake named Alexandre de Beauharnais.

She had two children, Eugene and Hortense, and then her husband lost his head — literally — and Napoleon, who fancied himself as a field marshal of boudoirs, made her his empress. One speculates that he lost a major engagement because he became famous for murmuring: "Not tonight, Josephine."

The women of Martinique are so exceptionally beautiful that one, Aimee Dubud de Rivery, was captured by Barbary pirates and presented to the Grand Sultan of Istanbul. Aimee became the mother of the emperor of the Turks, Mahmoud II. It seems incredible, but Madame de Maintenon, who also lived on Martinique, became the second wife of King Louis XIV.

My spouse thought that I had seen enough of the ochre-skinned ladies with their erect carriage, and insisted that we take a taxicab into the mountains. The driver said "$7"; Kelly said "$6." He agreed reluctantly. His normal fee is $4.

High above the harbor of Fort-de-France we knelt in the church of the Sacre Coeur of Martinique, a quiet place of cool whitewashed walls and claret-colored vigil lights. Outside, the flowers crept inward on a scented breeze, worshipers in their own right.

Far below, the big blue ship sat at anchor in the roadstead, a painted toy in an old bathtub. The driver took us downhill, prattling in a patois of French and English about the estates of the rich, with their high fences and flowerless lawns.

We returned to the ship. I assured Kelly that I had hardly noticed the girls, except as hybrids of the conqueror and the conquered. And that, my friend, is a purely scientific interest. O.K. Impurely . . .

BERRY'S WORLD

"I hate to tell you this Fred, but I'm afraid we guessed wrong. The unisex look is out. This year, the F. Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald look is in!"

INPUT AND OUTGO: While most Americans stay home now on weekends because of the energy crisis, bureaucrats at the Health, Education and Welfare Department are winging around the country at the taxpayer's expense.

HEW teams are dispatched from the nation's capital to places like San Francisco, Anchorage, Seattle, New Orleans and Denver to check on the new "terminal input system." The trips are made on the weekends and the travelers don't have to be "terminal input system" experts to go. They are supposed to help HEW keep track of its personnel.

Sources close to the program tell us that many of the travelers have nothing more to do with the program once they return. All the taxpayers get is a bill for per diem expenses and time-and-a-half overtime pay.

PROPANE PINCH: We have received reliable reports that brokers have driven up the price of propane gas by hoarding it until the customers bid the price up.

Propane has jumped from 13 cents a gallon in 1972 to about 40 cents a gallon today. Caught in the pinch are the South's rural poor, who use propane to heat their homes.

At the old price, propane was slightly more expensive than other heating fuels. But propane heaters were far less expensive than other heating equipment.

So poor people in the milder climates, who lived away from the natural gas lines, warmed their homes with propane. But now, propane costs have skyrocketed and the rural poor can no longer afford the heat.

LETTERS TO CARTER

Georgia's Gov. Jimmy Carter furnished us with pathetic appeals he has been receiving from the poor people in his state.

"I can't see no way we can keep on like this, can you help us please?" a mother wrote to him. The woman told Carter her propane fuel bill had shot up from $16 to $35 a month since last winter. "We eat mostly oatmeal now, but pretty soon we won't even be able to afford that," she wrote.

A 67-year-old widow complained to Carter that her fuel bill had risen from $20 to $50 a month, putting an intolerable strain on her $200 monthly income.

The money that is squeezed out of the poor largely goes into the pockets of unscrupulous brokers. Here's how they operate.

ARTIFICIAL SHORTAGE

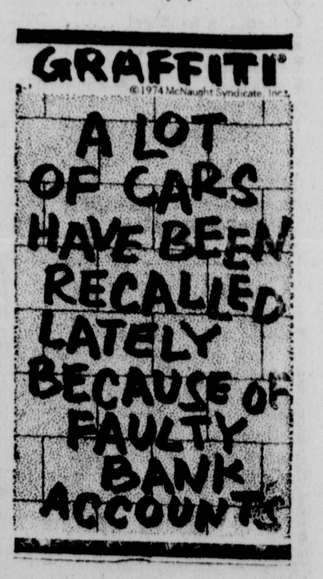

Brokers will buy propane from refiners, then store the fuel in underground tanks rented from the refiners. This creates an artificial shortage, which pushes up prices.

Often, the brokers sell to one another, as they speculate on the rising prices. Everyone in the chain takes a profit, so by the time the product reaches the consumer, the price has pyramided astronomically.

This same brokers' game is also played with other petrochemical feed stocks. There is evidence that the oilmen, too, have contributed to the price squeeze on propane.

Because of the public outcry about rising gas and heating oil prices, the oilmen have let their increased costs fall more on less visible products, such as propane.

FOOTNOTE: Both the Federal Energy Office and the House Small Business Committee have told us they are investigating the propane scandal.

March of Dimes Chairman Discusses Birth Defects

KINGSTON — "Birth defects should not be written off as something that happens to someone else. One out of ten families knows the anguish of the birth of a defective child," acording to Christus Larios, chairman of the New March of Dimes Drive in Ulster County.

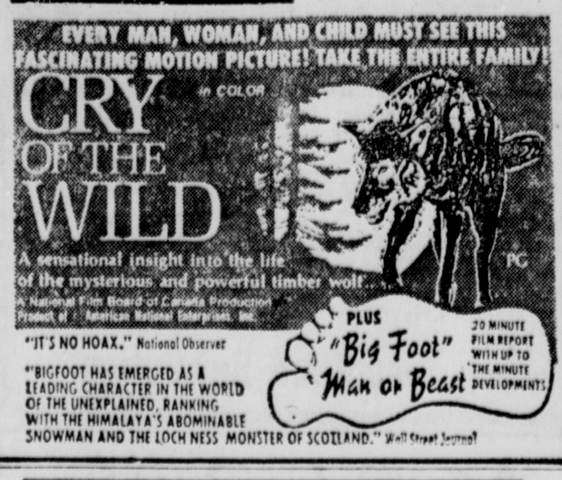

"The odds for this tragedy striking any family are worth serious thought," he said, explaining that as a direct result of a birth defect, there are 2.9 million mentally deficient people in the United States. Because of birth defects many children and adults will die this year.

Larios said that here in Ulster County, "one of every 14 babies will be born with a serious birth defect.

"Shocking as facts like these are, they nevertheless indicate that other than accidents, birth defects are today's greatest cripplers of children. The startling thing," he said, "is that this tragedy has for so long gone unrecognized."

Larios said that at long last something is now being done. March of Dimes has marshalled its forces to find causes and preventatives, plus local Birth Detect Centers for care of the afflicted. He said that the Evaluation Center for Birth Defects at the Albany Medical Center has been grantd more than $190,000 for the evaluation and treatment of babies born with serious birth defects. Such babies can be sent to the center on recommendation of their physicians without cost to parents.

Grocery Bill Up?...Blame Those Beef, Egg Prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Higher prices for beef and eggs pushed up the family grocery bill during January and boosted the total to a level 14 per cent above last March, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

There were only two bright spots at the supermarket during the month: butter and pork chops both went down in many areas and kept the totals from being even higher than they were.

The AP checked the price of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1 and has rechecked at the beginning of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that during January, the bill for the total marketbasket went up in nine cities, rising an average of 3 per cent, and was down in four, declining an average of 3 per cent.

That was an improvement over December, when the marketbasket bill rose in 12 of 13 cities checked, up an average of 2 per cent.

In every city, however, the total was well above the figure last March. The increases over 11 monhs ranged from 1 per cent in Salt Lake City — where declines in the price of pork chops and frankfurters kept the January total down—to 22 per cent in Philadelphia and Boston.

A look at the total number of items didn't provide any encouragement. Of 195 items checked, 38 per cent went up in price during January; 12 per cent declined; 41 per cent were unchanged; and 9 per cent were unavailable on one of the check dates.

During December, 28.7 per cent of the items checked went up in price; 11.8 per cent went down; 48.7 pr cent were unchanged; and 10.8 per cent were unavailable.

Beef price increases reflected wholsale cost of the meat. Chopped chuck was up in eight of the cities checked and all-beef frankfurters rose in seven cities. Increases in the price of chuck averaged a whopping 13 per cent and pushed the cost of hamburger to about $1.40 a pound in most cities.

Some areas reported a decline in beef prices toward the end of the month as the wholesale prices leveled off. The butcher at Ralph's Market in Los Angeles — where chuck went from $1.19 to 98 cents a pound — said nearly all beef prices were down, along with prices for pork, veal and lamb.

Eggs and cookies also were up in many areas. Chocolate chip cookies, up in 12 cities and unchanged in one, jumped an average of 8 per cent, generally about six or eight cents a bag. Eggs were up 11 cities and unchanged in two. The average increase was 3.5 per cent.

The AP survey covered Albuquerque, N.M.: Atlanta; Boston; Chicago; Dallas; Detroit; Los Angeles; Miami; New York; Philadelphia; Provi-Seattle.

The items checked were chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice, paper towels, coffee, butter, eggs, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softner, tomato sauce, cookies, milk, all-beef franks and sugar.

Samuels Resigns OTB Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Samuels, who announced his resignation as president ot the Off-Track Betting Corp., is off and running in a new political horse race—the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New York.

Samuels said at a news conference that his resignation Thursday from the $44,000-a-year OTB position would become effective next Friday, but that he would retain his place on OTB's five-member board of directors.

The 54-year-old millionaire insisted, "I will not announce for Governor while I'm on the payroll." But he said later in answer to a question, "I will campaign on positive issues. I think the Rockefeller Administration has been vulnerable for 15 years."

Samuels squelched rumors that he was unhappy with Mayor Beame's reported choice of former City Council President Screvane. Samuels said, "would be an excellent administrator for OTB."

He said he wanted to finish his term on the OTB board, which runs through Dec. 31, 1975, to assure "continuity" of operations under the new leadership.

Samuels said he would continue to urge legalization of other sports betting and the numbers game.

Taking issue with a privately circulated police report that blamed OTB for increased illegal betting, Samuels called the study "unscientific" and cited Police Commissioner Michael Codd's support of legalized gambling.

"It's time we face reality. Either we ban gambling entirely . . . and enforce the laws; or we legalize gambling and stop the hypocrisy," he said.

Samuels also criticized Governor Malcolm Wilson's lottery-style numbers game plan, calling it an "unbusinesslike approach." He said Wilson's plan would not return money to the communities in which the policy game is popular, as his own plan would.

Miners Favor Walkout

LONDON (UPI) — Coal miners wound up a crucial strike vote today, with ballots reportedly running overwhelmingly in favor of a walkout despite Prime Minister Edward Heath's appeal for "rational discussion" instead of "brute force.'

Union chiefs said Britains 269,000 miners were voting 80 to 90 per cent in favor of escalating their crippling 2½-month-old slowdown into a nationwide walkout on Feb. 10.

The voting was scheduled to end at noon today, but union officials said it would take at least until Sunday to tabulate the final results.

The coal slowdown, Arab oil cutbacks and an overtime ban by railroad engineers have combined to cut fuel supplies and plunge Britain into what Heath has called its most serious crisis since Word War II.

The prime minister, in a move to conserve dwinding energy stocks, imposed a three-day work week Dec. 31, throwing up to 1 million Britons off their jobs.

Heath appealed to coal workers Thursday "not to plunge the nation into a national strike" and offered to begin new peace talks with the mineworkers' union.

"Is this asking too much of the miners?" the prime minister said in a speech to Parliament.

Bank Official Sees 1974 Inflation

POUGHKEEPSIE

A senior New York City bank official has predicted that the United States will continue to feel the crunch of a worsening inflationary spiral in 1974.

Speaking before a recent meeting of the National Association of Accountants in Poughkeepsie, Bernard Schoenfeld, economist and a vice-president for the Irving Trust Co., said, "Inflation will be with us in 1974."

Schoenfeld used graphs and charts to emphasize his point. He noted that 1973 saw the highest prices and interest rates in this country since 1947 and, at the same time, the country's deficit spending since 1970 has been the lowest since the depression years.

Those two points, according to Schoenfeld, were major factors in 1973's inflationary spiral; a spiral he predicted would continue throughout 1974.

Schoenfeld, however, also predicted some bright spots for 1974, specifically a significant reduction in short term interest rates. He also said that more mortgage money should become available this year, as long as the Federal Reserve Board begins to circulate more money. Those two points, said Schoenfeld, could lead to an increase in consumer spending and the construction of more new homes.

Bell Releases Poll Results; Higher Gas Taxes Opposed

ALBANY Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) said today the results of his legislative questionnaire show the residents of Ulster County are overwhelmingly opposed to higher taxes on gasoline, would favor a mandatory death sentence in some cases, want to elect their own judges, and approve maximum limits on property taxes for senior citizens.

Bell mailed about 36,000 questionnaires and said the response was extremely good. "More than 3,500 persons took the time to fill out the questionnaire," he noted. "That is approximately a 10 per cent return and in opinion polling anything over three per cent is considered excellent. "Many citizens took the time to include personal notes, addressing themselves to issues not included on the questionnaire but with which they are concerned. I found these enclosures to be very informative and helpful."

Highlights of the survey show:

● Almost 85 per cent of those responding rejected higher taxes on gasoline. Sixty per cent favored the development of nuclear energy resources within the state, opinion was evenly divided on gasoline rationing, and an overwhelming 90 per cent want a total ban on all lighting of outdoor advertising signs while about 86 percent want construction codes amended to force higher standards for insulation of new construction.

● A mandatory death penalty for those who murder peace officers and employes of correctional institutions is supported by almost 71 per cent, and the state's new tough drug laws were solidly approved by a margin of about 72 per cent.

● Proposals to appoint rather than elect major courts judges drew strong disapproval with over 70 per cent favoring the election process, and most respondents, fearing the loss of home rule over the court system do not favor the state assuming the entire cost of court operations.

● State and local subsidized transportation for the elderly at reduced cost and the setting of maximum limits on property taxes for senior citizens were strongly approved by over 85 per cent.

● There was almost solid agreement that public authorities such as the Metropolitan Urban Development Corporation and the Thruway Authority should be required to open their records to the public; nine out of 10 want ceilings set on election campaign expenditures, and, by better than 75 per cent, homeowners favored forcing banks to pay interest on escrow accounts.

● By an affirmative tally of more than 70 per cent, those replying left little doubt that they want to see automobile mechanics and TV repairmen licensed by the state.

● About 57 per cent of those expressing an opinion believe that we should move from our present system of state-local funding of schools to greater state funding. There was, however, a substantial expression for continued local control over school systems even if that means more local real property taxes. There was an almost even split on the question of the state paying all of certain school costs such as construction, transportation and lunch programs, and 75 per cent indicated they do not believe public employes such as teachers, firemen and policemen should have the right to strike.

● Surprisingly, 59 per cent of those replying favor increased fees for licensing dogs to provide additional funds for local protection and control, Bell said.

"There is no doubt that this annual questionnaire program is of great value to me," he concluded. "Only through the expression of public opinion can I determine the views of Ulster County residents on such a wide range of issues, and I deeply appreciate the obvious interest in the affairs of government shown by those responding to the questionnaire."

Storm King Plant ...Another Round

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Power Commission will be getting congressional requests soon to reopen hearings on a permit to build a power plant on Storm King Mountain.

A House committee also may start looking into the issue.

Striped bass, the face of an eastern mountain and Con Edison's plans to construct what could be called a giant pump to carry water for its hydroelectric plant were the crux of an effort Wednesday by groups seeking to reopen the hearings.

The groups, ranging from the Hudson River Fisherman's Association to the director of a company which says it is one of the largest electric users in the East, say the plant will kill millions of striped bass, their eggs and larvae.

They also say the plant will practically wipe out one kind of commercial and recreational fishing from Maine to New Jersey in addition to wasting energy.

Con Ed was not present at the two meetings on Capitol Hill.

Rod Vandivert, a spokesman for the Striped Bass Fund, said the purpose of the trip to Washington "was to get members of Congress interested enough to get the FPC to kill the permi and reopen hearings and also to get the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee to hold hearings.

"There is materially new evidence that . . . much of the results of Con Ed's studies in the fisheries area were false in conclusions.

"Con Ed's originally financed study said Storm King would remove 2.8 per cent eggs, larvae and juvenile fish from the Hudson annually. This was a famacious conclusion."

Vandivert said a study by a branch of the Atomic Energy Commission found that the removal rate would be "2.8 per cent per day during the approximately 40-day spawning period during the spring.

"Several million mature fish would be killed during the winter months when they are lying torpid under the ice," Vandivert said.

"Though this was protested early . . . the FPC and the other agencies involved refused to acknowledge the error. "This is the information which now prevails on the application.

"Seventy-five per cent of the fish in the river could be destroyed by being sucked in or impailed on the screen," Vandivert said.

In addition, the proposed Storm King plant would be powered by oil and "would use 2 million barrels of oil a year more than an alternative plant," he said.

In a background paper given to the congressmen, the groups contend that Storm King's pumping of water up the mountain to return to the river and thus produce electric power would require "40 per cent more electricity . . . than would be produced."

The paper also said that for "every three kilowatts of power used for pumping, only two are returned to customers, meaning an unavoidable 30 per cent wastage of energy."

One of the congressmen at the meetings, Rep. James R. Grover Jr., R-N.Y., said, "If tneir statistics hold up—it's a threat to the $100-million striped bass indusry.

"I think they have a good case and the FPC should take a look at it."

On the energy issue, Grover said, "If there's any credence to that, that alone should make the FPC reopen the hearings."

While Grover said the groups should seek "administrative relief" first from the FPC, he said if that failed, he would introduce legislation for their cause.

Rep .Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., said, "I will be contacting the FPC requesting the reopening of the hearings. I will be working to see these peoople have a near hearing on the evidence that has been developed," Fish said.

"I thought it was one of the best presentations I've ever seen," Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., said.

"The full urgency of this should be understood by the committee. I'm going to talk to the chairman . . . but I don't know if hearings are in order.

"I hope we can exert some pressure on the FPC to convince them that the merits of the case are such that it ought to be reconsidered," Studds said.

Doing the Right Thing

By Elizabeth L. Post
© 1974, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

The following letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to the writer, who wishes to remain anonymous.

Although Mrs. X.'s letter pertains to the holiday season that is now past, her suggestion is such a good one that I am printing it now, hoping that other readers in similar positions may follow it next Christmas, or any time that this sort of problem might come up.

Dear Mrs. Post: This was my husband's first year as a manager in his business organization (restaurant). We both knew that it is customary for suppliers to give persons in my husband's position bottles of liquor during the holiday season.

For moral reasons, we felt we could not accept such gifts and wanted to make this known ahead of time to avoid any awkwardness and possible embarrassment on either part.

We posted a note, where the suppliers leave their bills, to the effect that a donation to a worthy charity or a contribution to a "Gift Basket" we were making up at the store for a needy family in lieu of bottles would be appreciated.

The response was good, but we are still not sure if we should handle it this way again next year, and would appreciate your opinion on this matter.

"Mrs. X."

Dear "Mrs. X.": You couldn't have thought of a nicer way to handle it!

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been a widow for several years, and I continue to wear my gold wedding ring just as I continue to call myself Mrs. Howard Jackson. Some of my friends ask me why, since I am no longer married, I wear the ring. I am in my sixties and have no desire to go around trying to look like a "single" girl. Furthermore, I still love my musband and the ring means a great deal to me.

Am I being very old-fashioned?

Mrs. H. Jackson

Dear Mrs. Jackson: You are certainly NOT being old-fashioned, and a woman who has been happily married for a number of years would surely want to continue to wear her ring. Your husband's death does not change the fact that you were his wife, and unless you decide to remarry, there is no reason to discard the evidences of your happy marriage.

To make your wedding day the happy, memorable occasion you want it to be, my booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure" is just what you need. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

This City Girl Isn't in a 'Retiring' Mood

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 28 years. I am 55, and Zeke is 57.

After Zeke and I were engaged, he told me he was buying his brother's farm. I told him if that's what he really wanted I did not want to go thru with the marriage because I did not care to live on a farm. We broke our engagement. A few weeks later Zeke called and said he wasn't buying the farm and would I marry him.

To make a long story short, we were married, but I have heard nothing but "farm" since I married him.

Now, Zeke tells me he wants to buy a "nice little 12-acre farm" in the same stinking area we broke our engagement over. He says he wants to "retire" there. Abby, I never wanted to live on a farm, and I sure as heck don't want to "retire" on one.

What should I do?

CITY GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell Zeke you still don't want to live on a farm and don't give an inch, or you'll wind up on 12 acres.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Agape in Colorado" — the problem the gentleman had in wondering how he could tell a lady who was wearing a pantsuit that her fly was open. We have a simple solution for that problem. When my sometimes forgetful 7-year-old son is seen in that state, we just say, "XYZ," which is a signal meaning, "Examine Your Zipper."

DOTTIE KING

DEAR DOTTIE: Thanks for an A-OK suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: It's past midnight now, and even if I went back to bed and tried to sleep, I couldn't, so I might just as well write this.

My sister has a beautiful 3-year-old son who she doesn't appreciate. Sis works Monday thru Friday only to satisfy her extravagant tastes. Her husband makes good money, but Sis never has enough clothes, so she works, too. Sis drops her baby off at Mom's every work day without fail. The baby is never fed, and sometimes he's not even dressed. Mom takes care of him all day until Sis picks him up at 6 p.m. (Mom even gives the baby his supper and has him in his pajamas, bathed, and ready for bed). Sis doesn't pay Mom one cent, either.

I feel sorry for Mom. She has her own housework to do (three kids and Pop are still at home), and Mom is growing old and tired, but she would never say no to Sis.

There have been weekends when Sis leaves the baby with Mom, but Mom never complains.

Doesn't Sis realize that Mom raised her kids and now Sis should raise her own?

I love my sister and wish she would open her eyes.

NOT AS FORTUNATE

DEAR NOT: Perhaps your signature conveys more than you meant it to. Why don't you tell your sister how you feel? There is always the chance that your mom doesn't feel as burdened by the baby as you think she does.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I wear one of my husband's old shirts as a cover-up over my own clothes when feeding the baby.

It is easy to take off when the doorbell rings and it really protects my clothes.

These shirts may be tossed in the machine and if drip-dry, naturally little or no ironing is necessary.

I found that my babies like the bright-colored ones best.

Mrs. Rober Curtin

Dear Heloise:

I always use a coffee pot brush (the long thin one) for cleaning the track in my tub enclosure.

All it takes is just a little tub-and-tile cleaner and a good scrubbing with my little ol' brush.

Then I rinse it, stand back and gloat over a job well done.

Mrs. A.P.C.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

I have found that putting your steel wool pads on a regular kitchen cleaning brush makes the chore easier.

This little trick gives you much better leverage when cleaning pots and pans and, besides that, it eliminates the metal slivers from your fingers and protects your nails—and expensive manicures.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

My friend (who is also a grandmother) wants me to send you my idea for letting your distant grandchildren know you.

Our daughter lives 11,000 miles away and, when she had her first child, I dreaded to think of her children growing up without really knowing us. (She recently had her second child.)

After much thinking, I came up with the idea of writing a series of letters to each child telling them of our reaction to their birth and what our interests were, etc., at that time.

I save the whole newspaper published on their birth date and then write a letter welcoming them to our family. I have a neat file for each child and, if we should expire unexpectedly, this is their inheritance.

Most children think their grandparents were always old, so this gives them an insight to our younger years. This will be a gift that no one can duplicate. Our Love!

When our daughter-in-law, who lives in our city, presents us with grandchildren, we expect to do the very same for them because then, the in-town ones will never feel deprived because of the out-of-town ones.

Mrs. V. E. Hoffman

LETTER OF CHAGRIN

Dear Heloise:

My husband has to take a lunch to work and I pack it the night before and leave it in the refrigerator.

In variably I would get up and find the lunch still in the refrigerator after he had left.

One night I decided to pack his car keys in the lunch bag too. He hasn't forgotten since!

BRING SPRING INDOORS THIS WINTER

How about this winter weather? Want to brighten your corner of the world? asks Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Fragrant hyacinths, tulips and colorful daffodils are among many bulbs which can be forced into bloom to brighten the home during those dreary winter months.

The easiest bulbs to force are crocus, daffodils, galanthus, hyacinth, narcissus, scilla and tulip. Use large healthy bulbs purchased this fall or dug up from the flower bed. These bulbs may be forced for indoor bloom by two different methods.

1. Using vermiculite (a sterile soilless medium) or a mixture of equal parts of garden soil, sand and sphagnum moss, plant the bulbs in clay pots with the tips 1 to 2 inches below the soil surface. The pots are then stored indoors or buried outdoors to give the bulbs the required cold temperatures to break dormancy. ndoors the bulbs must be kept in a cool dark room at around 40 degrees F. The pots must be watered frequently to keep the soil moist. Outdoors the pots may be buried, but most be covered with screen to prevent rodent damage. After 8 to 12 weeks the pots are brought into a cool bright room and kept at 55 degrees F. where they will bloom in about a month. Avoid keeping the bulbs too warm since cooler temperatures will produce longer lasting blooms.

2. A second method which will work well for crocus, hyacinth, narcissus and tulip bulbs is to refrigerate the bulbs at 40 degrees F. for 2 months, then plant the bulbs as mentioned and bring into a bright sunny room at 55 degrees F.

Either way, you will enjoy your colorful fragrant spring bulbs indoors long before spring arrives.

Discard forced bulbs since they will seldom grow or flower well when replanted in the garden.

ROADBLOCK — New Mexico State forward Bill Allen (15) attempts to block a jumper by Memphis State guard Clarence Jones but the Tigers downed the Aggies 73-66 in the slow-starting game in Memphis, Tenn., Thursday. (UPI)

For Irish: Win and Loss

By United Press International

Just when Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps thought his team was on the road to recovery from last weekend's loss to UCLA, he's faced with another setback.

No, Subway Alumni, the Irish didn't lose Thursday night. In fact they won quite easily, 101-72, over DePaul. But an ominous note to the victory was the mysterious "illness" to befall Phelps' prize freshman recruit, Adrian Dantley, late in the game.

Dantley, one of the most heavily recruited players in the country last spring, collapsed on the Irish bench during a time-out with about three minutes to play. He was then taken by ambulance to the school infirmary in a "semiconscious condition," according to an Irish spokesman.

"But," the spokesman added later, "he was checked out thoroughly by doctors there and we don't believe it's anything serious."

After leading by only three at halftime, Notre Dame pulled away from DePaul after the intermission as Gary Brokaw (25 points in all) and Dantley (23) led the way. The win upped the third ranked Irish's record to 13-1.

"I think they just had too much overall strength," admitted DePaul Coach Ray Meyer after his club absorbed the loss to the Irish

"We can't go to the bench, but they can . . . for a sixth, seventh and eighth man. We can usually play most first fives even, but one of our problems was that we got tired," added Meyer, "and with their tremendous shooting, they shot us right out of the ball park."

In the only other games involving top-rated teams Thursday, eighth-ranked Providence was upset by Duquesne, 88-87, in overtime; No. 12 Long Beach State downed California-Santa Barbara, 78-68, and No. 13 Louisville blitzed North Texas State, 97-81.

Duquesne's Bernie O'Keefe sank an 18-foot shot at the buzzer in overtime as the Dukes shocked Providence. The game was tied at 77-77 in regulation and Providence, which had won 10 straight prior to the loss, was ahead 87-84 with 14 seconds left in the overtime. O'Keefe hit a layup to make it 87-86 and then, after Providence called time out, freshman guard Norm Nixon stole an inbounds pass to set up O'Keefe's winning bucket.

The Pondexter brothers—Roscoe with 26 points and Clifton with 13 rebounds—paced the Long Beach State victory over UC-Riverside, while Allen Murphy's 20 points and tenacious defensive work on North Texas scoring ace Bobby Iverson keyed the Louisville triumph.

Elsewhere, St. John's bested Rhode Island, 77-59; Bradley put away Wichita State, 100-73; Virginia Tech crushed William & Mary, 80-61; Memphis State whipped New Mexico State, 73-66, and Colorado State drubbed Brigham Young, 69-52.

NL Approves Sale of Padres

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — With assurances that professional baseball would remain in San Diego, National League club owners have approved the sale of the Padres to hamburger king Ray A. Kroc.

The unanimous decision, reached at a meeting here Thursday, ended an attempt to move the floundering franchise to the nation's capital. Reports of that deal kept many disgruntled Southern California fans away from the ballpark last year.

League President Charles "Chub" Feeney said the owners had been assured the Padres would remain in San Diego "in the foreseeable future."

Kroc, 71, chairman of the McDonald's hamburger chain, has promised not to move the team at least until 1980, and has signed a new stadium lease that runs through 1988. The San Diego City Council agreed Thursday to pay the Padres $429,000 a year in subsidies, an increase of $144,000.

But predictably in C. Arnholt Smith's long and tortured attempts to sell the Padres, there was talk of a last-minute hitch.

"We still have a problem with Mr. Smith because I understand the Internal Revenue Service is attaching our check," said Kroc in a radio interview from Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "His attorney has said if the IRS is going to attach the check then they don't want to sell.

"We say that's too bad, it wasn't part of the contract . . . I've heard that if he now refuses to sell, the National League is going to foreclose on his franchise and we'll get it."

That statement angered a Smith attorney, who said, he's not pushing around a hamburger salesman. If he wants to take that attitude, then he and the National League could find themselves with a nice lawsuit."

Kroc later said he had only been quoting a rumor he had heard. "I hope it's not so," he said. Smith was unavailable for comment.

Smith, besieged by government and private lawsuits and a $22.8-million IRS tax claim, tried to sell the Padres last year to Washington, D.C., market chain owner Joseph Danzansky for $12 million, the same price Kroc reportedly is paying.

But Danzansky failed to meet a deadline to cover damages expected from $84 million in lawsuits filed by the city of San Diego for breach of contract and alleged antitrust violations. City officials have promised to withdraw the suits upon approval of the Kroc sale.

The Padres, who still lack a manager, hoped to take the first step toward ending their stranglehold on last place in the NL West today with the scheduled signin g of slugger Willie McCovey.

Buzzie Bavasi, Padres' president, was given the green light by Kroc to do his best—money notwithstanding—to give San Diego the best possible team, starting with the 1974 season.

Armed with Kroc's money, Bavasi scheduled a news conference for today to announce he has signed McCovey, who has 413 career homers, to a $150,000 contract. That's about $15,000 more than McCovey earned last year while hitting 29 homers and driving in 75 runs in only 130 games for the San Francisco Giants.

No question, the Padres figure McCovey is the man who can help them out of the NL cellar, where they have always finished since joining the league as an expansion club in 1969. They also will be counting on such other expensive wintertime acquisitions as Bobby Tolan and Glenn Beckert.

Bavasi still has to sign a manager and was reported to have closed a deal with John McNamara, popular coach of the San Francisco Giants and former manager of the Oakland A's. Announcement of McNamara's signing was expected to come early next week.

It's Good Bad News For Rampaging Bruins

By United Press International

Boston Bruin fans got some good news and some bad news Thursday night.

The Bruins, thanks to two goals by Phil Esposito, beat the Atlanta Flames, 4-2, to increase their lead in the National Hockey League's East Division to eight points over idle second-place Montreal.

But Bruins all-star defenseman Bobby Orr, originally scheduled to return this weekend after suffering a knee bruise, will be out of action "10 days to 10 weeks," according to coach Bep Guidolin.

Orr was injured in last Sunday's win over Philadelphia when he received a check from Bill Barber just above his twice-operated left knee. X-rays showed he suffered a bruise but no injury to the inner leg.

"We count a lot on Bobby," said defenseman Carol Vadnais, who will have to pick up the offensive slack. "Bobby brings the puck up and now others will have to do it. I'm going to have more ice time."

Vadnais responded admirably against the Flames, contributing two assists, one of them on Johnny Bucyk's goal in the third period that snapped a 2-2 tie and put the Bruins ahead for good.

Vadnais also assisted on Esposito's second goal of the game with less than three minutes left to play. The goal was Esposito's 45th of the season and upped his league-leading point total to 91.

In other NHL games, the New York Islanders downed Los Angeles, 4-2; Philadelphia edged Buffalo, 4-3; Chicago nipped California, 2-1, and Toronto tripped Minnesota, 3-1.

Rookie Bob Nystrom scored three consecutive goals in the third period and veteran Ed Westfall added a goal and three assists to lead the Islanders to victory over Los Angeles. The triumph was the third straight on the road for the Islanders, a team record.

Dave Schultz scored two goals to lead Philadelphia past Buffalo in a game marred by four fights and 25 penalties. Rick Martin scored for Buffalo in the second period on a penalty shot—the first penalty shot awarded at the Spectrum since the Flyers entered the NHL six years ago. Martin added another goal in the third period.

Goals by Stan Mikita and Dale Tallon in the first five minutes of the game stood up for Chicago in its win over California, the 26th defeat for the Seals in 27 road games. California's only goal was scored by Joey Johnston, his 20th of the season.

Tim Ecclestone scored a pair of first period goals and Rick Kehoe added a third period marker to lead Toronto over Minnesota as the Leafs moved to within three points of the idle third place New York Rangers in the East. J.P. Parise accounted for Minnesota's only goal.

In the World Hockey Association, Toronto edged Los Angeles, 5-4, in overtime, Quebec topped Houston, 6-4, and Jersey defeated New England, 4-1.

Tom Martin scored after 3:46 of overtime to give the Toronto Toros their win over the Los Angeles Sharks. Toronto rookie Wayne Dillon sent the game into overtime with a goal at 19:34 of the final period.

Renald Leclaip scored the winning goal for Quebec in its triumph over Houston. The Aeros' Gordie Howe scored once and set up two other goals for Houston teammate Jim Sherritt.

Second period goals by Harry Howell and Andre Lacroix boosted Jersey past New England. Wayne Rivers scored Jersey's first goal and Bob Jones tallied the Knights' final marker. John French scored a power play goal for New England.

Rick Likes Seconds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Never give a good shooter such as Rick Barry too much time. Houston gave the Golden State star two seconds and it cost the Rockets a National Basketball Association victory.

Calvin Murphy had seemingly snapped Houston's three-game losing streak and Golden State's five-game winning streak when he hit a 22-foot jump shot for a 108-107 Rocket victory Thursday night.

"Anything can happen in two seconds," said Barry who gave the Warriors a 109-108 victory with a 28-foot jumper at the buzzer.

"It was a good shot," said Barry who scored a total of 38 points as the Warriors moved to within one game of idle first-place Los Angeles in the Pacific Division. "I had time to catch it, turn and shoot. I didn't just have to throw it up."

Rudy Tomjanovich led Houston with 30 points.

Phoenix beat Portland 112-100 in the only other NBA action. There were no games in the American Basketball Association.

Charlie Scott scored 25 points and Neal Walk 22 for Phoenix, which opened up a 15-point lead in the second period. Then Phoenix held off Portland, who got a season high 38 points from Sidney Wicks and 24 by Geoff Petrie.

O'Brien Reactivated

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Nets announced Thursday the reactivation of 6-foot-7 rookie forward Jim O'Brien.

O'Brien, a Maryland graduate, was released by the Nets before the start of the regular season and had been playing with Trenton of the Eastern Basketball League.

Big Jack Is Back

HONOLULU (AP) — Hello there, Johnny Miller, Big Jack is back.

"I came to play golf," Nicklaus solemnly warned after firing an eye-popping seven-under-par 65 Thursday despite the rain and slop and goo that finally forced a suspension in the first round of the $220,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament with some two dozen players still on the course.

"When I come over here on a vacation, I bring the kids," Nicklaus said after tying husky Dwight Nevil, a one-time Dallas fireman, for the 18 hole lead.

Nicklaus played golf with a vengeance, too, taking birdies on seven of his last 10 holes despite the rain that alternated between a soft, warm tropic shower and a torrential downpour.

The rains, which fell steadily for almost 24 hours, caused one delay of 45 minutes and eventually caused the 7,154 yard Wailalae Country Club course to become unplayable.

One of the players who must complete his round Friday is a lanky New Zealander, John Lister, who had it six under par after 14 holes.

Miller, who had taken some time off last week after scoring an unprecedented sweep of the first three titles of the year, was on the course when play was halted.

"I thought I could par out so I finished," he said, struggling in at darkness, wet and bedraggled with a 71 — six strokes back of the leaders.

"Actually 71 isn't too bad," said Miller, who kept alive his record of breaking par in every competitive round this season.

Nicklaus and Nevil, who has yet to win on the pro tour, shared a two-stroke lead over Gibby Gilbert and Rocky Thompson, tied at 67. Those at 69 included Hubert Green, Andy North and Dave Eichelberger.

Arnold Palmer, pausing from time to time to wipe off his eye-glasses, managed to match par 72. So did Billy Casper. Lee Treyino was at 73, while rookie Ben Crenshaw could do no better than 74.

Jersey's LL's: Boys and Girls

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Little League baseball teams in New Jersey must permit girls to play, the state director of civil rights has ruled.

Gilbert H. Francis, director of the Division of Civil Rights, ordered Thursday that Little League baseball treat both sexes equally on its New Jersey teams.

The order, believed to be the first of its kind, also directs that both boys and girls be informed of tryout times.

The order stemmed from a complaint by 12 year-old Maria Pepe of Hoboken, who was dropped from her local team after Little League, Inc., headquartered in Williamsport, Pa., threatened to revoke the team's charter.

The Thursday action endorsed a ruling by a hearing examiner last November. Little League has threatened to appeal the ruling to the state courts.

Denver Given Franchise In Pro Soccer League

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Phil Woosnam announced Thursday a Denver group headed by Richard H. Olson has been granted a North American Soccer League franchise, concluding an expansion movement which has nearly doubled the league's membership.

The Denver franchise is the seventh addition to the league since last season and swells the membership to 15 teams.

The other new cities joining the NASL are Baltimore, Boston, San Francisco, Seattle, Vancouver and Washington, D. C.

In addition to granting the Denver franchise, Woosnam announced the league will be realigned to four divisions, with four teams each in the northern, eastern and western groups and three in the central division.

The northern division will include Toronto, Boston, Rochester and New York, while the eastern will consist of defending champion Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Miami.

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver make up the western division, with Dallas, Denver and St. Louis in the three-team central.

Ken Bracewell, former general manager-coach of the Atlanta Apollos, has been named coach of the Denver team, with Norman Sutherland serving as general manager. The Denver franchise expects to play at Mile Hile Stadium.

The NASL regular season will open the first week of May and extend until Aug. 11, consisting of 20 games for each team.

KHS Swim Dynasty?

The days of high school sports dynasties are not what they used to be. Shrinking school district boundaries, shifting populations and realignment of athletic conferences by the state makes dynasties harder to come by.

But no matter what happened in this afternoon's crucial swim match between Kingston High and Our Lady of Lourdes at Poughkeepsie, you have to admit that Ron Gabriele is giving it the old college try at Kingston High.

Gabriele is a coach in the classic mold, dedicated, enthusiastic, apparently unhampered by graduation losses, maintaining a steady flow of top notch mermen for the Maroons. In addition, he is a sports editor's dream, a coach who gets those results in, win lose or draw.

Gabriele was fearful that Lourdes, anchored by the phenomenal Kevin Connell, would snap Kingston's winning streak at 34 straight meets. On Dec. 13 in their first meeting of the season, Kingston defeated the Warriors 99-73. It could be much closer today.

Gabriele has a right to fear, a senior transfer from Poughkeepsie, who transformed Lourdes into a swim power overnight. Connell is cited in four different categories in the latest Top Ten poll of the New York State Public High School Athletic Association.

"Combine him with Mike McCombs (a junior) and you have the best one-two punch in the Hudson Valley and probably Section One as well," says Gabriele.

"These two can win any event they decide to enter," he added.

It is apparent that Kingston defeated Lourdes because of superior depth in their first meeting. Now that Coach Jim Nash has seen the Maroon depth, you can expect that he will make critical changes in his lineup in an effort to neutralize the Kingston bench.

The home pool advantage should help Lourdes, but it also is the last shot for the Warriors. There will be no league meet this year and if Kingston wins, it will be 6-0 and Lourdes would fall to 4-2. With only two league meets remaining for each team, it would give Kingston no less than a tie for first place. The Maroons figure to beat the remaining two opponents on the schedule — Poughkeepsie and Ketcham.

RON GABRIELE

Connell is an amazing performer, with college greatness ahead of him. In the current state poll, he is tied for second place in the 50-yard freestyle in 23.0 seconds; second in the 200-yard individual medley (2:02.5); second in the 100-yard freestyle (49.8) and fourth in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:04.0). You can believe Gabriele when he says, "Connell is truly a super-star, a one-man gang."

Kingston had a fair hand of its own going into the Lourdes crucial — Paul Hansen, the first KHS swimmer ever to make the Top Ten list. Hansen is seventh in the current 500-yard freestyle ratings with a clocking of 5:10.9. The state leader is Bob Nichols of Niagara-Wheatfield in 4:58.1.

There are other Maroon heroes for the 1973-74 season which has seen Kingston extend its winning streak to 34 in a row. Junior Mike Helmich had not lost a diving event through the first six meets of the season. Name him — consistent.

Jay Rifenbary, with West Point on his mind, and Hansen are both undefeated in individual events. Kingston's last setback came on Feb. 9, 1973 against the Warwick powerhouse. This is a date Coach Gabriele is not likely to forget. It was the day Mrs. Gabriele presented him with their youngest daughter, Gail Marie, who was born at the Kingston Hospital.

Corey Chambers, the current Kingston High basketball star, is the younger brother of Bruce Chambers, former KHS cross country standout in the days of the Cabell-White duo. Bruce is now serving in the U. S. Navy.

We hope the area sports world is sufficiently aware of the accomplishments of this dynamic young coach. Who knows, some day it may lead to recognition of swimming as a sport in the Kingston Consolidated school system. It might even mean Kingston High's own swimming pool. Or is this unmentionable during the energy crunch?

Bob Lanier's Legs Not Like Marlene's

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marlene Dietrich's sexy legs are insured for a million bucks and here comes big Bob Lanier along without so much as a nickel's worth on his.

That's the way he wants it.

Bob Lanier, the Detroit Pistons' 6-11 center, has the kind of underpinning that people keep talking about all the time.

His feet aren't merely big, big, they're unbelievably so.

On the basketball court, where his superlative defensive work has the Pistons operating magnificently, promising them their first berth in the NBA playoffs in six years perhaps, Lanier wears size 22 sneakers, a pair of which already repose in the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield, Mass.

Now nobody has ever mistaken him for a twinkletoes, but you'd think with the great season he's having, people would tend to forget about his feet.

Nothing doing.

Bob Lanier was the MVP in the NBA's recent All-Star game at Seattle, and at $335,000 you could say he's having a better year than the President of the United States, all around anyway, but none of this seems to matter. People still keep bugging him about his feet.

"Like after the All-Star game I got a letter from one of my friends," says Lanier. "He was telling me about Elgin Baylor and Pat Summerall doing the commentary and play-by-play on TV. Elgin mentioned my name and said, 'Gee, he's got big feet!' Then Summerall said, 'yes, he has.'

"I figure I was past all that by now. The first year I was in the league in 1970 I could understand it. They had to have something to talk about. By now I should wish they would talk about my talent. Okay, so my feet are big. So what? They're something I gotta live with.

It hasn't really been all that bad lately for 25-year-old Bob Lanier.

Most basketball people, when they speak of him now, talk about the brilliant turn-around he has made from strictly an offensive ballplayer to a much more complete one on defense. The league's latest statistics bear that out, showing Lanier averaging 23.1 points and 13.9 rebounds a game. Those figures make him the league's 10th leading scorer and sixth leading rebounder.

Down through the years, Detroit has been something of a boneyard for basketball coaches and the fact the Pistons seldom bothered themselves about playing defense unquestionably had something to do with that.

The team moved to Detroit from Fort Wayne 17 years ago and during that time it tried 10 different head coaches from Charley Eckman to Ray Scott, who took over in October of 1972 from Earl Lloyd and is doing such a great job now.

Lloyd was concerned enough about the Pistons' pourous defense so that he kept after them about it all the time. He even brought in Bill Russell, the defensive granddaddy of them all, specifically to work with Lanier last season and it was Russell who first made Lanier aware there was such a thing as a center performing well on defense.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!—Marlene Dietrich's sexy legs are insured for a million bucks and here comes big Bob Lanier along without so much as a nickle's worth on his. Here, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy presents MVP trophy to Lanier at NBA All-Star Game January 15, in Seattle, Wash. (UPI)

Handlebar Checks Sportsmen, 81-67

KINGSTON — Those YMCA "A" Basketball League players keep going round and round — and where they stop nobody knows — because nobody has seen the standings yet.

In Tuesday night's bracket of games, the haves had it with plenty to spare. The Handlebar's five iron men — without mustaches — handled Sportsman's Grill 81-67; Acker's Bar rode a big first-quarter explosion to a 74-62 win over Bud's Sub Shop; and Lowe's Pool's dunked (no pun intended) Corner Rest 75-38.

Three of the Handlebars, who led 35-27 at the half, scored in double figures. Don Komosa rimmed 21 and Tom Fiore and A.J. Murphy added 20 each. Komosa also embellished his performance with 16 rebounds.

Joe Bush led Sportsman's with a game high of 27 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. Another ex-OCS star, Dennis Gale, scored 14 points, John Stelson had 12 and Mickey Bush 10.

Acker's Bar's well balanced performance, spear-headed by Jim Alba's 21 points and 18 rebounds, overcame Rocky Johnson's 24-point effort for Bud's. Scott Miller (17 rebounds) and Dave Kane tossed 14 apiece for Acker's. Jerry Hawkins had 12 and Dave Whitaker 10. Elton Lindsay scored 16 for Bud's.

Lowe's scored 28 points in second quarter to lead Corner Rest 45-20 at halftime. Joe Brown paced the squad with 20 points. Mike Palladino contributed 14 and Ron Burris 12. Harry Brink was the only Corner man in double figures with 13 points.

KINGSTON — Richard (Dick) McCormick, a physical education instructor at the J. Watson Bailey School and golf coach at Kingston High, has been appointed head YMCA swim team coach, James Lapak, Assistant General Director, announced.

McCormick replaces Joe Edwards, who is stepping down for personal reasons. Lapak thanked Edwards on behalf of the YMCA and the team for the many years of voluntary service he has given to the swimming program at the Y.

The coaching job at the Y involves more than 100 young swimmers, entails many hours of practice time and most weekends throughout the swimming season from October through April 1.

McCormick, who will be assisted by Grant Wood and Fred Seeger, has been assistant coach at the Y for the past six seasons. He will be gearing up his team for the league championships in late March and the New York State YMCA Championships. The team has five regular dual meets on this season's schedule.

UCCC Hosts Staten Island Saturday

NP Hawks: Hottest Five Around

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON — A strange metamorphosis has occurred in Ulster County's collegiate basketball picture. New Paltz, the town of stone tucked under the chin of the Shawangunks, currently houses the area's hottest five.

It is a twofold surprise. Previously the SUNY Hawks were primarily noted for their financial troubles, a situation that often overshadowed futility on the court. But 1974 has been a banner year thus far. In four games, New Paltz has yet to lose.

The achievement of that four game streak is underscored by the sputtering fortunes of Ulster County Community College. Three times the Senators have been victorious back-to-back, but each time two defeats followed.

New Paltz faces two games this weekend, and Ulster plays one. The Hawks host Fredonia tonight and then go against Buffalo while UCCC meets Staten Island Saturday.

The 4-8 Hawks will not have an easy time extending their streak. Fredonia is the nation's top defensive club yielding only 48.6 points to opponents. Coach Bill Hughes has moderate size at his disposal, and he leans most heavily on 6-4 forward Howard Brown and 6-4 guard Mark Clifford. The Blue Devils are 10-4.

Should the Hawks clear that hurdle, Buffalo will pose an even bigger problem—literally. Three of the Bengals stand 6-7. Junior forward Jerry Dudley heads the group with a 19.5 scoring average and a 13.3 rebounding mark.

Buffalo is only 3-11 on the year, but it's a misleading record. The Bengal schedule is rugged and includes among other results a two-point loss to Niagara. In the SUNYAC competition, Buffalo is unbeaten (2-0) and averaging 102.5 points per game.

A reshuffled Paltz lineup has clicked off the four wins. Glenn Hudson, enjoying his best year as a senior with a 21.4 average, is the mainstay, but at last Hudson has help. Ron Domanski (11.7) and Tom Whitaker (10.6) are handling the forecourt while Art Shapiro and Bobby Jackson do the rest.

There are few things Evan Pickman enjoys more than winning a basketball game from UCCC. Since he is the coach of the Staten Island Dolphins, he'll get a chance Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Ulster meanwhile is struggling for timing despite vast improvements in personnel. With a light schedule that has provided UCCC with only one game in the past three weeks, Senator coach Jerry Moss is trying to assemble consistency.

A week ago the signs were evident in an unsuccessful bout with Farmingdale. Layoff-dulled, Ulster shot poorly.

Leading scorer Ike Chestnut will have to regain his touch if the Senators are to rise above .500. He won't have much time to do it. The schedule picks up in a hurry with the Senators at Dutchess on Tuesday, at Sullivan for a makeup game Thursday, then back home to Senate Gym for a rematch with Broome Tech next Saturday.

Kingston High Hosts Lourdes

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON — Don't blame Kingston High if it keeps an eye on the scoreboard tonight when the Maroons host Lourdes at 8 p.m. in the Field House.

While KHS tangles with the relatively weak Warriors, undefeated Poughkeepsie visits Beacon in the Dutchess County Scholastic League's pivotal game-of-the-year. A Poughkeepsie win will all but clinch the league title for the Pioneers. But if Beacon shoots down PHS, as it did in the non-league Poughkeepsie holiday classic, the Bulldogs will move into a virtual tie for the lead and Kingston's slim hopes will be enlarged.

In other DCSL games tonight, John Jay is in Saugerties to meet the Sawyers and Ketcham visits Roosevelt.

Top attractions on the Ulster County Athletic League schedule this evening are the Division I meeting in Ellenville between the Ellies and the unbeaten Fallsburgh Comets, and the Division II showdown in Marlboro between the first place Dukes and second place Highland.

Elsewhere, Coleman looks to snap a four-game losing streak when it hosts Pine Bush in the fight for an escape route from Division I's basement; New Paltz goes to Onteora; Red Hook is at Wallkill; and Liberty entertains Rondout Valley.

The DCSL situation is as follows: Poughkeepsie is 9-0, Beacon 7-1, Kingston 6-3. A Poughkeepsie win tonight would give the Pioneers a two-game edge in the loss column with only six games to play. And of those six, only the contest against Kingston can be considered rough. Should the Pioneers lose, however, they would have one loss, as would Beacon, and Kingston would sit two defeats behind (barring an upset by Lourdes). Kingston still has Beacon and Poughkeepsie on the schedule, so that if the Maroons could beat both and the Pioneers were to be upset by another club, a tie would result.

Certainly Kingston's chances are small, but a Poughkeepsie victory tonight would make them just about non-existent.

Saugerties had John Jay's number earlier this season and needs a win tonight to continue its march towards fourth place. A Sawyer triumph would accomplish a tie with Jay and either Ketcham or Roosevelt.

In the UCAL, Fallsburgh hopes to have it better against Ellenville than it did the last time the clubs met. On that occasion, the Ellies took the Comets into overtime before succumbing.

How much effect the reduction in Ellenville's squad will have remains to be seen.

Highland, meanwhile, is at the .500 level and could move to within two games of first place Marlboro with a win. A Duke victory, however, would just about lock up the crown for Coach Joe Ciampi's team.

* * *

Fallsburgh remained No. 3 small school team in the latest NYSSWA poll. Beacon held on its No. 16 large school rating.

Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Ellenville, Liberty, Rhinebeck, and Marlboro are honorable mention teams.

Onteora Skiers In Double Win

WOODRIDGE — Onteora skiers continued to look sharp in a double victory over Ellenville Wednesday at Davos. The Indians have a perfect 4-0 record in boys competition and are 3-1 in girls skiing.

The boys defeated the Blue Devile 185.10-203.15 despite the efforts of Ellenville's Jim Murray, Murray, defending Section 9 champion, took first place honors with a time of 32.65.

Finishing second on the fast granular surface was the Indians' Tomaz Lundar at 32.80. Teammate John Sheehan was next at 36.00 and rounding out the top five were Ellenville's Ken Hornbeck, 36.10 and Onteora's Mike Powers, 36.75.

For the girls, Kathy Murray of Ellenville, also Section 9 defending champ, paced the field with a 36.50 clocking. Oneora grabbed the next three spots, respectively, with Barbara Sheehan, Tracy Jennings and Bianca Shaefer.

In Thursday action, Fallsburgh split with Rondout at the Pines. The Comet boys triumphed 118.9-128.8 but the Rondout girls gained the split by winning 141.6-152.4.

The Gander girls swept the first four spots. Jennifer Cullen was first at 25.05, followed by Leslie Davenport 26.70, Jennifer Barthel 27.45 and Pia Massey 28.50.

Dennis Swayda Leader in PBA

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Dennis Swayda of Phoenix, Ariz., rang up a 1,503 six-game block Thursday to lead 23 other pro bowlers into the match game portion of the $60,000 Cleveland Rotary Open.

With game scores of 266, 279, 212, 258, 257 and 231 he vaulted from 30th place to first place.

Swayda totaled 4,181 pins in 18 games, averaging 232.

Canadian Girl Breaks Record

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI) — Leslie Cliff, an 18-year-old Vancouver student, gave Canada a fine start on the final day of the Tenth British Commonwealth Games swimming Friday when she broke the 400-meter individual medley.

Miss Cliff's time of 5 minutes, 1.35 seconds clipped 1.62 seconds off the old record which Australia's Gail Neall set in winning the Munich Olympic final.

Another Canadian, Becky Smith, was second in 5:03.68 and New Zealander Susan Hunter, much to the delight of the capacity crowd of 5,000, won the bronze medal in 5:07.20.

Miss Neall, ironically, finished last in this race.

Just so you won't think the Flannery convention is perfect we will show a hand where it backfired against its users.

South had no interest in a slam after his partner opened with a Flannery two diamond call, but he wanted to be in a notrump game and got there by the direct method of bidding it.

East wanted a heart lead and was able to call for it by doubling. In general when you double a freely bid notrump game you are asking your partner to lead dummy's best suit and the Flannery two diamonds established hearts as that suit.

South did the best he could after West opened the 10 of hearts. He ducked in dummy in hope that the lead was a singleton, but West was able to lead a second heart. South played dummy's nine. East won with the jack and led the king to knock out dummy's ace.

East was interested in just one thing. He wanted to make sure of three heart tricks in addition to his two aces and this play made sure of them.

Ordinary bidding would probably find North playing three notrump. East would lead a heart but unless he were a seventh son of a seventh son he would not think of leading low and North would romp home with game and rubber.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

KISSES. (Q.) This girl and I have been going out for a month now and we seem to be getting along just fine. I like her and she is really nice to be with.

The only thing that I dislike about her is the way she kisses. Her kisses are unexplainable. How do I tell her about this? Or do I just leave it alone and hope she will change?—Hesitant in Ohio.

(A.) It's best to be open and honest. You can only correct your problems if you discuss them and do SOMETHING about them. Sweeping any misunderstanding under the carpet will not make it go away. So deal with your kiss trouble now.

Just say to her, "Let's talk about kissing." And then start talking about it. But do it BEFORE you kiss her, not after. Then, as you talk, you can work on the problem.

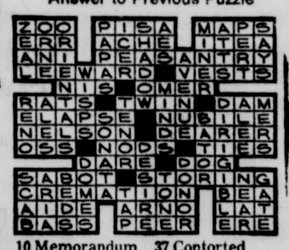

TOO CLOSE: (Q.) My friend is quite different from me and other girls our age. She expresses her feelings strangely. She walks very close to me and sometimes holds my hand. When she got a B plus on her science test she kissed and hugged me.

I get so embarrassed. I don't like hanging around with her. What should I do?—14 in New York.

(A.) She's probably just friendly and affectionate. Many girls, and grown women too, are like this. However, if you don't like her style, then find someone else to chum around with.

ALL THE FOLLOWING DESCRIBED PARCELS OF LAND, situate in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Ostrander" appears on its assessment rolls of the said town for the year 1919 to 1923, inclusive.

The above described premises being the same as conveyed by the People of the State of New York to Hugo Schroeder, by deed dated August 31, 1927, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on September 19, 1927, in Book 526 of deeds, at page 519.

The said Hugo Schroeder died at X-Ray Hospital, 2 West 121 Street, New York, New York, on December 10, 1940, a resident of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, leaving him surviving as his sole distributees, the grantors herein, and leaving a last Will and Testament executed the 30th day of September, 1937, and duly probated in the Surrogate's Court of the County of Ulster on the 30th day of December, 1940, wherein he gave unto his wife, Elly Schroeder, all of his property for her use and benefit and for her support and maintenance, for and during the term of her natural life, and upon her death, he gave all property to his two sons, Rudolph Schroeder and Hugo Schroeder Jr., share and share alike.

Oil Executive States '71 Negotiations Were Sabotaged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negligence by U.S. diplomats sabotaged critical 1971 negotiations between the oil industry and Middle East exporting countries, according to a key oil executive.

The actions showed the export countries that the oil companies had no substantial government support and enabled them to build up the negotiating leverage or "momentum" for price increases of 400 to 1,100 per cent, said G.H. Schuler, vice president of Bunker-Hunt Oil Co., in testimony Thursday before a Senate subcommitee.

Unless the importing countries now achieve enough solidarity to reverse the process, it could lead to an economic and political disaster that might create the conditions for war, Schuler said.

Schuler blamed former Undersecretary of State John N. Irwin and Douglas MacArthur Jr., former U.S. ambassador to Iran, for what he saw as the critical foul-up in mid-January, 1971.

He said they sided with the exporting countries' efforts to break up a united front among the companies—a front which had been authorized by the administration specifically to prevent them from being whipsawed into price concessions.

Irwin, now ambassador to France, appeared in executive session Thursday afternoon to answer the charges. He was expected to testify publicly today.

Schuler, who was intimately involved in the negotiations, said he believed the situation could be rectified—short of "such serious economic and political dislocation for the entire world that demands for military intervention will become inevitable"—only if importing countries can achieve solidarity in their conference scheduled in Washington Feb. 11.

ADVERTISEMENT — A Maryland truck driver who obviously has strong feelings about rising fuel costs and low freight rates advertises his sentiment on the front of his rig Thursday. Independent truckers across the nation are calling for a complete shutdown of trucking. (UPI)

Truckers' Strike Now Spreading Steadily

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Demands by independent truck drivers for lower fuel prices and more money for the cargo they haul spurred a shutdown that spread across parts of 20 states today in the East, the South, Appalachia and the Midwest.

There were scattered reports of parked rigs in California and Arizona.

Several thousand truckers apparently had joined the action. But in most of the 20 states, some independents were still operating.

Some plants announced layoffs, others said they couldn't stay in business much longer and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp prepared to call out the National Guard to halt the violence that claimed one life in his state Thursday.

One New Jersey refinery kept its gasoline trucks parked as pickets marched outside.

State police patrolled highways in some Appalachian states. Union drivers not honoring the shutdown call traveled in groups of threes and fours in other areas. On one Virginia highway early today groups of trucks slowed down at bridges and intersections, looking for nails and other obstacles which caused some drivers to head home.

Reports received from truck stops in several states were that rigs had blocked the fuel lanes. "I just told the drivers to pull in front of my pumps and block them," said Don King, a truck stop manager in Fenton, Mo. "These guys are my bread and butter and whatever they want, I'll go along with them."

Businesses dependent on trucking were beginning to feel the impact of the action, which started last week in Ohio and Pennsylvania but did not begin spreading much further until Thursday.

A few small firms in Ohio and West Virginia announced layoffs Thursday and some Midwest meat packing plants said they may soon feel the pinch.

The shutdown, a product of the energy crisis, could make the situation worse if it continues.

A dozen major coal mines in Appalachia were said to be running critically short of supplies and near a shutdown.

And in a few areas officials expressed concern that gasoline would not be delivered by independent drivers to service stations badly in need of their February allotments.

State and federal officials pleaded with the drivers to give the government a chance to make good on its pledge earlier this week to increase fuel supplies and raise freight rates.

But Shapp, emerging from a Thursday night meeting in Pittsburgh with representatives of independent drivers, said "the truckers made it clear they will have their shutdown."

Shapp's lieutenant governor, Ernest Kline, said Shapp would sign the order calling out the National Guard today.

In most of the states where some effect was reported, there were also reports of trucks moving on the highways, and here were indications the shutdown would not spread to other areas. Drivers questioned at two Spokane, Wash., truck stops Thursday night said they would keep rolling, but would stop if they encountered trouble.

Sadat Cements Middle East Posture

By United Press International

Egypt hardened its Middle East negotiating position today, vowing to maintain a state of war until Israel pulls out of all captured Arab territories and guarantees the "national rights" of Palestinian refugees.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said today Israeli demolition teamps blew up concrete hangars at a captured Egyptian airfield during the pullback from territory seized during the 17-day, 1973 Middle East War.

The sources defended the destruction of installations at the Fayid airfield, saying, "It's a military installation in a war theater, not a discotheque."

Egyptian President Answar Sadat said, "Israel should withdraw from all occupied Arab lands and the national rights of the Palestinian people should be ensured.

"I will not sign (an agreement) ending the state of belligerency with Israel unless these two conditions are met."

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper, Al Ahram, said Sadat made his remarks during two meetings in the Egyptian captal with Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

Sadat also defended his decision to sign a troop pullback agreement with Israel despite criticism from Libya, Iraq and some Palestinian guerrilla groups.

"I am not going to pay attention to this, because we know our way well," he said. "There will be no bargaining (with Arab rights) and no partial settlements."

Sadat also said Israeli ships would be barred from the Suez Canal until "complete withdrawal is realized and the rights of the Palestinians are safeguarded."

The troop pullback agreement, worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, would leave Egypt in control of the 102-mile-long waterway for the first time since the 1967 Middle East War.

The accord calls for Israeli troops to pull back into the Sinai Desert 13 miles east of the canal in exchange for a thinning of Egyptian forces along the waterway's east bank.

"What matters to Cairo now is to see a united Palestinian stand and a united Arab stand," Sadat told Arafat. "This is very important for you and very important for us."

Guerrillas Stop Talks

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Four guerrillas holed up in a hijacked ferry after attacking a U.S. oil refinery broke off talks today for the release of three hostages and demanded a plane to the Middle East.

The hijackers, who identified themselves as Japanese and Arab guerrillas, waved away boats from the commandeered ferry, firing a pistol in the air when a vessel carrying newsmen got too close.

Tokichiro Uomoto, Japan's ambassador to Singapore, used a bullhorn today to speak with the commandos from the deck of a ship in Singapore harbor, but failed to get them to release the hostages.

The guerrillas, who have also demanded the ambassador accompany them on a flight to an unidentified Arab country, ordered Uomoto's boat away when he tried to approach with food parcels.

A flotilla of police cruisers and gunboats then backed off, leaving the hijacked ferry in a cleared circle about one-half mile in diameter.

In Tokyo, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew agreed Thursday night to let the hijackers go free in return for the release of the remaining hostages.

The commandos seized a sampan Thursday afternoon in Singapore harbor and tried to blow up Shell oil tanks on Pulau Bukum Island, 1½ miles off Singapore's coast. Three of their 11 bombs went off, but police reported only minor damage to the refinery.

The hijackers then seized the ferry and took its five Singapore crewmen hostages. During the night, the guerrillas put life jackets on two of the crew and threw them overboard. The pair, picked up by police boats, said they did not know why they were released.

The guerrillas, who identified themselves as members of the Japanese Red Army and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, Thursday tossed overboard a handwritten note threatening to blow themselves up if police approached.

The note said the commandos attacked the refinery because of "today's oil crisis" and to show "solidarity with the revolutionary Vietnamese people."

Six Survive Pago Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"You could see the flash all over town," said a witness after the crash of a Pan American World Airways jetliner during a landing approach in stormy weather at Pago Pago, Samoa.

Only six of the 101 persons aboard were reported to have survived. Thirty-six of those aboard the plane were U.S. residents.

"The plane hit about 200 yards west of the runway in a banana field," continued Jake King, editor of the Samoa News in Pago Pago, in a telephone interview with the Oakland Tribune.

"Both wings were severed, the co-pilot's side was ripped open and the tail section fell away," King said. He said the plane exploded on impact.

A Pan American spokesman said the 707 jet went down 1,000 yards short of the runway during heavy rain squalls at 6:52 a.m. EDT on Thursday.

A team of seven investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board was dispatched to Pago Pago, on one of the seven islands of American Samoa in the mid-Pacific.
